Syspine VoIP Phone System To Receive Upgrade This Summer

Response Point SP1 will provide advanced new features

(RENO, Nev., April 05, 2008) — The Syspine® Digital Operator Phone System from Quanta Computer will become more powerful and even easier for small businesses to use this summer when the feature update Service Pack 1 (SP1) is added to its Microsoft® (Nasdaq: MSFT) Response Point™ phone system software.

Syspine, an advanced IP phone system designed for companies with one to 50 employees, was created for ease of use, low costs and integration with other technologies. It features a powerful voice-recognition system that can be linked with a company's internal phone directory, as well as an individual's Microsoft Office Outlook® address book.

“The Syspine Digital Operator Phone Systems operating today are the perfect solutions for small business and have been proven to fulfill requirements of an office phone system,” said Mike Yang, Vice President of Quanta Computer, Inc. “The SP1 upgrade will provide new features to an already feature-rich phone system. The best news of all is that current and future users will be able to augment their systems very easily this summer by downloading SP1 for free. It is a very smart and practical feature update that we embrace wholeheartedly.”

Response Point SP1 will provide the following advanced features to Syspine: SIP Trunking with DID number (Direct Inward Dial) Support, Call History View, Click to Call (the ability to call out directly by clicking a phone number on your computer screen), Customized Call Park Music (customers can make their own call park music or message), Call Restriction per phone, and a Device Firmware Upgrade Tool (a function that upgrades firmware of all phones at the same time).

Syspine systems purchased after the SP1 release will be pre-loaded with the update.
